

Me at seven with my Arabian pony, Tokey, on our farm. I will never ride a more beautiful, intelligent horse. By the time I could really control her, I was too big to ride her. She died recently after living on our farm for over thirty years.

Jessi Phillips is a recent graduate of Western Michigan University's MFA program, where she was the fiction editor of Third Coast. This is her first major publication.